ECO-FRIENDLY GANESH IDOL MAKING WORKSHOP

Department of Environmental Science

India is a land of festivals. Every year many festivals are celebrated by people of different communities across India showing our rich tradition and culture. Every festival has its own richness and unique identity so, it is natural that festivals have impacted our environment in many ways: from increased carbon emission to waste generation. It is our duty to promote sustainability and create awareness among the students about environmental issues. One of the significant steps in this direction is to green up our festivals. Eco-friendly Ganesh idol making is a sincere attempt taken by the college to instill a deep appreciation for mother earth in younger generation. The Environmental Science department organized an Eco-friendly Ganesh Idol making workshop on 16th September 2023 for the students. Mr. Sandeep Kumbhar, a renowned sculptor taught the students to make beautiful Ganesh idol from Shadu soil. In total 35 students participated in this activity. Head of the department Prof. Mrs. S.S. Sonavane, Prof. A.D. More took sincere effort for the successful organization of the event.
