Nirbhay Kanya Workshop

Theme- 'Women Safety'

28/01/2020

T.C. College, Baramati in collaboration with Savitribai Phule Pune University, Student Welfare Scheme jointly organized a one-day workshop on 'Women-Safety' on 28/01/2020. The workshop was inaugurated by Mrs. Alka Pavangadkar (Member of Streemukti Sanghatna, Pune). Dr. Avinash Jagtap, Vice-Principal, chaired the session. In his address, he stressed on how women should be aware of the surroundings, be brave and confident. He gave a clean understanding about self-defense.

In the first session of workshop, Mrs. Alka Pavangadkar inspired the girls and elaborated on fearlessness, self-confidence, courage self-awareness and strength and decisiveness which every girl must possess. She must be aware of her legal rights and responsibilities. She also stressed on women empowerment and women safety. She also talked about eve-teasing, obscene remarks, and jokes which are all crimes against women. These are all crimes that outrage the modesty of women. These crimes are sometimes committed by near and dear ones or relatives. Women should be able to gauge these people and be brave and fearless to defend herself.

Dr. Latika Jadhav talked upon challenges before women. She stressed upon mental torture which is prevalent in the society and how women should fight and raise the voice against all kinds of harassments. Women should be united and have a scientific approach towards life.

Mrs. Amruta Bhoite from Baramati Nirbhaya Pathak talked about different types of crimes and harassments against women. She also informed the girls laws about violence against women. In the last session, the Natraj Natya Kala Mandal performed one act play named 'Black Rose' which was based on acid attack survivor Laxmi Agarwal. The play was written by Gauri Bhagwat and directed by Sunil Kuchakar and inacted by Sakshi Parkale.

The Coordinator of the workshop Dr. Seema Naik-Gosavi welcomed the guests and gave an introductory speech. This workshop was attended by 50 girls of V.P.
