YOU MUST KNOW BEFORE BUYING Gold Jewellery

...the most common metal used in the world is gold. It is a soft metal and is often alloyed with other metals to make it harder and more durable. The most common alloy used in gold jewellery is silver. Other metals used include copper, nickel, and zinc. The most common karat used for gold is 24K.

The price of gold jewellery is determined by the purity of the gold, which alloy it is combined with and the amount of skill and labour that goes into the design, the weight and the making design.

COLOUR
Gold has many variations. In addition to yellow gold, white gold and rose gold are also popular options. You can also find mixed metal pieces if you prefer a mix of colours. But the primary demand for gold is in the world's markets for yellow gold, white gold, and rose gold.

In many countries including India, local law requires that every item of gold jewellery bears a unique stamp indicating its content. Jewellery usually comes with a quality number, separate from any identifying marks and its weight is printed at the end.
