First Year M. Voc. Media Studies

Department of Media and Communication Studies had conducted three days study tour for First Year M. Voc. Media Studies students. The study tour destination was Aurangabad district only. M. Voc. First year syllabus has a theory paper called Visual Communication, which consists World Art history, Indian Art History, Paintings, Sculptures, Architectures. There was one written report to be submitted by students on Ajanta - Ellora caves and paintings in it. As these sites are the unique combinations of paintings, sculptures, architectures from various historical periods.

For the fulfillment of this report writing, department had organized a study tour of Ajanta, Ellora Caves and Devgiri fort of Aurangabad during 11th to 13th February 2020. On the day first 11th February 2020 we visited and explored UNESCO World heritage site Ajanta Caves, Aurangabad. We explored all the caves. Students gained the historical as well as cultural perspective and importance of this site. To understand The Indian Art history, it was very important site for visual communication student. The subject teacher had already covered the artistic importance and history of Ajanta caves and paintings before the visit in regular class teaching. Visiting Ajanta caves was experiencing the particular art culture in person. Students explored all the paintings and sculptures from all 28 Ajanta caves. They understood the unique structure and art form in Ajanta caves. After completing it the day rested in Aurangabad.

On second day 12th February 2020 we moved towards another UNESCO World heritage site Ellora caves, Near Verul village. Same like Ajanta caves, subject teacher had already covered the artistic importance and history of Ellora caves before the visit in regular class teaching. Students had explored all Hindu, Buddhist and Jain caves. The importances of these multi-religion caves are epic symbol of unity in nation's art history. The unique structure of Ellora caves and rock sculpture were explored by the students. Both the UNESCO World heritage site Ajanta and Ellora visits helped students to enrich their knowledge of Indian visual art history in person. We rested our second day in Verul village.

On third day 13th February 2020 we moved towards the popular fort Daulatabad (Devgiri). This was also helped students to understand the Mughal architecture history. The unconquered fort itself says its building capacity uniqueness. Students explored every structure of fort including Minar, Mahal, and multiple watch towers of Daulatabad (Devgiri) fort. After that we moved towards AM News television news channel headquarter in Aurangabad city. There students had interaction with Chief Editor, sub-editors, editors in channel. They understood the actual working of channel which includes desk department, news channel live feed technology, channel's production control room, television channel studio setup and various instruments of channel.
