Subject: Report of International Webinar on Crisis of Security Challenges: A Global Concern

Respected Sir,

As per the above mentioned subject, the webinar was organized on 15 and 16 January 2021 by the Department of Defence and Strategic Studies. In this webinar various speakers from national and international level guided participants regarding the current global security challenges and the consequent growing global insecurities. In his speech, Professor Ngboawaji Daniel Nte of Nigeria said that the international organization and developed countries have not fully addressed the issues of civil war, genocide, unemployment, terrorism, famine in Africa, while expectations from a responsible country like India are increasing. While explaining the importance of Indian Ocean, Commander Dr. Bhushan Dewan highlighted the importance of Blue Economy and suggested that research and development in the sea-based economy could help to reduce the strain on natural resources and that can help to reduce the growing global instability. He also expressed concern over China's growing interference in the Indian Ocean. Dr. Laxman Behra opined that the direction and state of global and national security will be determined by technology in the coming years. Radha Raghurampataruni underlined that new problems are emerging from the growing trade war between China and the US are resulting economic instability. Mamata Jahangir said the threat of chemical and biological weapons is not over yet and chemical weapons have not been destroyed by many countries yet. Even though most of countries signed the chemical and biological weapons convention pact. Naved Jamal, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Jamia Millia Islamia University, pointed out the need for improvement from a global health perspective. Dr. Chandrakant Bhangе discusses growing Security threats in South Asia and underlined India's growing responsibility to maintain peace in Asia. A total of 1500 people from India and abroad registered for this webinar. On the first day 1757 and on the second day 1037 people participated in this webinar. A notable feature of this webinar is that Speakers have discussed various topics in speeches about current events and historical views on global security. The above information is reported for your kind perusal.
