Detail information of the programme/activity:

As part of our college's social responsibility initiative, we visited a slum area in Baramati to conduct a teaching session. The slum area was densely populated and lacked basic amenities. We interacted with the children and found that they were eager to learn. We taught them basic concepts in math and science and played educational games with them. The children were enthusiastic and participative throughout the session. We realized that education is the key to breaking the cycle of poverty and empowering the marginalized. Our experience was a humbling reminder of the challenges faced by these communities. We hope to continue our efforts to make a positive impact on their lives.
